John Maina: Njitagwo John Maina na I have some few comments about the Legislature. In my view, creating the national council is unnecessary and a great expense to our national economy. Same task that will be carried by the national assembly are the same roles that will be carried by the Upper House except in money Bill where the national assembly will have a privilege over the other house. Kenya only needs the traditional national assembly because.....under the Draft Constitution any Bill or legislation being enacted on merit by the national assembly will have received a great expertise from professional and all stakeholders before it is passed. Furthermore, if a Bill is unconstitutional there will be a Supreme Court to redress the situation if Parliament passes such a Bill. So, the national council is not necessary.

John Kanyi: My name is John Kanyi from Muumo location and I have gone through the Constitutional draft, unfortunately I have not been able to cover the whole of it before I came to this venue. I had gone as far as Chapter seven and I have some recommendations or proposals to make according to the effect of the draft. First and foremost, I would declare my support of the new Constitution and its use in the Country. I would first and foremost support the initiation or the setting aside of a holiday regarding the same. I would support...that is in Chapter Two. As per Chapter Three, Clause (15) 1, it requires the knowledge to be with the citizens. I would propose that we include the initiation of constitutional learning in schools. So that we can have educated or enlightened citizens in future regarding the same.

In the same Chapter we have the customary laws which I would propose, the Constitution should...whether African or International may be defined better and drafted. So as to avoid the use of inconsistent words of these laws. In Chapter One, we have the defence of Constitution. It is my proposal that we include in the Constitution, the definition in which ways and how the citizens are supposed to defend the same. We have the sub-heading of territory in the same Chapter. I would propose that our Constitution to have or to include a detailed map with the markings of the first schedule of the draft to incorporate it in the Draft or in the Constitution. Interpreting schedule or a table of the draft terminologies, or it is my proposal to be included in our Constitution. So as to give the meaning of the words as per they are used in the Constitution. For example, Republic, Sovereignty, Article, Democracy, Law, Act, Parliament, Bill and others. The Commission guides should incorporate the youth in the intended national conference which shall finalise the draft. I have noted also something regarding the national council although it had been mentioned. The youth have been discriminated. Chapter Five, Clause (36) 1, provision of material help by the State to the elderly should be considered in our new Constitution Act.
